- since 1964 kelibia has hosted the kelibia international amateur film festival, the oldest of its kind in the country

kelibia fortress

- A ramp passing under a fortified hall leads to the centre of the fort which is surrounded by various spaces dating to different periods, including, probably a Byzantine chapel with three aisles where various documents and plans relating to the fort are displayed, as well as the remains of military installations, an oratory and basins dating to Ottoman times.
- A lighthouse stands in the bastion's southern corner from where a splendid panorama can be admired.

The beach

- A dreamy sea has a rhythmic pulse to it unmatched by any other part of nature, it forges its own sounds and kindles its own symphony. You will find yourself visualising its glorious vastness, its dreamy surface and straining to hear its metronomic wave music

General weather

- Kelibia is the sea's faithful neighbour. the weather can be extremely cold in winter, no snow has been witnessed so far/till now..
- During the summer, and thanks to the beach and its cool breeze, the weather is more bearable than in any other part of the country.
